

Toni Stork

Toni Stork is the founder and managing partner of OMMAX, the digital consultancy headquartered in Munich. OMMAX advises companies strategically and operationally on complex digital data driven projects in the areas of digital growth strategies, supporting and carrying out the development and implementation of digital strategies. OMMAX also advises financial investors on the purchase and sale of digital business models. As Managing Partner, Toni Stork is primarily responsible for national and international clients. He also leads digital due diligence and digital turnaround projects for private equity and venture capital funds such as Castik Capital, Riverside and EMERAM Capital Partners.

From 2008 to 2010, he worked for the internationally operating incubator company Rocket Internet and, as a business developer, was responsible for the development of digital companies (including Home24).

As a strategically thinking practitioner Toni Stork is speaking at conferences and trade fairs since 2011, and shares his experiences of the successful development of digital business models.

Toni Stork holds a Master of Science degree in Accounting, Finance and Taxation from the University of Mannheim.
